Rev. W.H. Heap in the Methodist Times:

The strangest thing I know about the Son of God is that he would rather be called the Son of man than anything else. You cannot read the new Testament without realizing that man never felt any restraint in the presence of Christ. They knew that he knew how bad they were, and therefore that he could also realize how good they might become. Christ never recognized an "outsider" in any company. Somehow or other within the church we have to get rid of that accursed sense of respectability which besets us, so that it may be the most natural thing in the world that some poor wretch who is stricken and devil ridden should come to us as if he were coming home for help and comfort and healing. Christ's idea of religion is that a man should be a daily walking and talking with God.

Dominion Day.

The first of July: this year falling on Sunday, the celebrations will take place on Monday, July 2.

At the present time it would be impossible to choose any object to benefit from these celebrations more deserving of public support than the Red Cross Fund, and we know the great work already achieved by this society among the sick and the wounded on every front of this great war, independent of nationality, that we cannot send too much in money or goods to keep up the supply in constant demand. Those who have relations and friends who have had the misfortune to be counted among the casualties will perhaps appreciate this more than others. So far as we are removed from the scene of strife, until the news comes through of some loved one dear to us, to be counted in this list, we do not realize what the war really is, nor until we read letters from those who have come directly under the influence of the Red Cross do we fully realize the work of mercy and comfort it brings to the brave boys who are fighting for home and country, for the cause of freedom, civilization and Christianity. These fine fellows go forth to battle, fully knowing the risks they run, with greater confidence from the knowledge that should they fall the Red Cross is following them up with bravery and daring not less than their own ready to rescue them, attend to the wounds and take every possible care of them. We have confidence in appealing to our readers to support this great work to the best of their ability. We are not celebrating at Irma on that, it is too soon after the big celebration held at the end of last month when the Red Cross received benefits that Irma need not be ashamed. We must not, however, rest on our laurels and think we have done enough in this cause. This can never be so long as the war lasts and there are wounded and sick heroes to be attended to. There are celebrations arranged at Jarrow, Viking, and other centers, within easy access from Irma, and have no doubt that many from the Irma district will take the opportunity of visiting neighboring centers and become acquainted with the districts and people in them, and at the same time help the cause of the Red Cross.

In the Irma Agricultural Society standing field of seed grain and garden vegetables competition, the following prizes will be offered:

1st $30, 2nd 20, 3rd 12, 4th 8, 5th 5, for each class as follows: Wheat, Oats, Barley, 1 acre each, field roots, 1 acre, garden vegetables, 1/4 acre.

The judges will be supplied by the Seed Branch, Provincial Department of Agriculture.

Entrance fee $3 for each entry. If less than five entries in one class the class will be cancelled and entry fees returned. Entries close July 16th. For entry forms apply to F. W. Watkinson, Sec.-Treas.

Competition open to all members of the Irma Agricultural Society and fields must be within 20 miles of Irma.

Dr. A.M. Firkins, dentist, will be at Irma from June 29th to 30th. Graduate of Northwestern University, Chicago; Demonstrator in Operative Dentistry at Northwestern University Dental School in 1910-1911. Edmonton office: Dr. Firkins will return to Irma on July 1st. Dr. Firkins will not stop at Jarrow during summer as train service is bad to Irma.

Keep Prize List printed in this issue for future reference.

Letter From H.M.T. Shackleton.

May 27th, '17

Dear Bro:-

Just a few lines to let you know how I am getting on. I suppose you are busy seeding now. Things are pretty tough over here for the people; everything is very high. You wanted to know what I am doing; Well, I am on a mine layer on the North Sea. I like this job, only it is hard living. We get paid on the first of the month and then we go ashore and have a feed of ham and eggs with some milk to drink. One of our trawlers got lost yesterday. Two Canadians out of our bunch. We got a bob a day extra for this work; so we can buy more grub. We are just finding out that we have to pay duty on tobacco sent from Canada. Two of our lads had to pay more than the tobacco cost that was sent them. The sailors get it in France free but we don't, so don't send me any more as if I get what you have sent me I might not have enough money to pay the duty on it. If I send it back don't touch it or you will have to pay twice the duty. You ought to write to tie papers and get something done about duty for the sailors. We have to buy too much here on seven bob a week and everything has gone up in the Navy now. See if you can do something for the sailors. Received the box of grub and we sure enjoyed it if it was dried up. We had great excitement here last week! The Queen was here and opened the hospital that was built by Canadian women at Haler Camp, just a few miles from our barracks. Then one of the battleships came in that had sunk the

Seven Million Killed

Total Casualties in War Exceeds Population of United Kingdom

The number of men killed in the war thus far, estimated at 7,000,000 by Arthur Henderson, member of the British war council, in an address at Richmond, England. He estimated the total casualties of the war to be in excess of the population of the United Kingdom. (The population to the census of 1911, was 45,370,000.)

Mr. Henderson said that after nearly three years of unprecedented military effort there were no immediate prospects of a cessation of hostilities. The severe character of the war and its prolongation tempted some persons to ask why peace should not be attempted by other means. He would tell them, he said.

It was because the challenge thrown down by Germany in 1914 still held good, the long and bitter struggle which dictated the policy of aggressive military action on the part of Germany continued to be supported by the German Emperor and his Prussian advisers. Until the great act of liberation had been fully achieved the Allies could not falter.

The Statist alludes further to the great improvement in train and carload statistics and to the fact that the economy shown by the conducting transportation ratio. It thinks that notwithstanding the advancing costs, the net earnings and profits for 1917 will compare favorably with those for 1916, and that there is every likelihood that the gross income of the company's activities will prove as wonderful in the future as in the past.

A Medical Need Supplied.—When a medicine is found that not only acts upon the stomach, but is so composed that it can be taken in any position, it is a medicine that has found its way to the stomach to find action in the bowels, then there is available a purgative and a cleanser of great effectiveness. Parlee's Vegetable Pills are of this character and are the best of all pills. During the years that they have been in use they have established themselves as no other pill has done.

Reproach to Britain

Mother Country Might Take More Interest in Overseas Dominions

The overseas dominions regard the destiny of the British Empire with as much enthusiasm as we in these islands do. They have, indeed, an ardent natural to young communities, which may well serve to stimulate their own interests. It is a reproach to Great Britain that Sir Robert Borden should be able to say without challenge that before the war Germany had a more systematic and thorough knowledge of the resources and developments of the dominions than could be found in the United Kingdom. "May we not hope," he asked, "that after the war a livelier interest will be taken in the young nations of the great British Commonwealth?" No statesman or party who do not feel that in the policy of the future the Imperial interest must have a place which it never yet has had will find themselves in touch with national feeling. The Imperial war cabinet is it is true, but it is the determination of all parts of the British dominions that the inspiration of the war shall not cease when peace comes.—Edinburgh Scotsman.

better taken care of if you would make your building last longer. It will keep all joints and checks in the lumber from opening up thus making your building much colder when winter comes on.
